Editor's Column

The Carmel Business Association spearheaded a movement to obtain off-street parking facilities in the business district on November 8 when it petitioned the city to double business license fees for five years and earmark this revenue for the acquisition of parking lots.

Although the council has not acted on the petition, the Business Association's proposal spurred the council to request the planning commission to develop an off-street parking plan for the commercial district. Yesterday the commission began this task.

Carmel councilmen, planning commissioners, police, business interests and residents agree the lack of parking in the business area is Carmel's greatest problem. All hope for some solution in 1962.

However, some figures should be considered. Carmel has a population of 4,549 persons. Last year 302 retail businesses operated in Carmel. That is one business for every 15 residents.

Carmel businessmen, then, to gross $19,271,354 last year depended largely on outside spending. Any parking plan must, to be acceptable to them, provide ample space for visitors' cars.

At the same time, any parking plan must be acceptable to the residents and retain the character of the community in which, incidentally, relatively few of the businessmen reside.

The planning commission again faces a reconciliation between business and residential interests in their new project.

If Carmel is to continue to exist as a unique community this reconciliation must be effected.

The Business Association, at the time it petitioned the council, stated that parking was not solely the responsibility of the city's commercial interests, but the responsibility

Nowhere Ever Town Like Early Century Carmel, Phyllis Appleton Recalls

BY RAYLYN PENNEY

Carmel of the very young century was a different world, not only from the Carmel of today, but from any place in any time.

This was confirmed by Phyllis Overstreet Appleton, whose memories of a Carmel childhood are like a mellowed mezzotint. She grew up with the town.

Mrs. Appleton, daughter of William L. (Bill) Overstreet, founder and first publisher of The Pine Cone, and niece of Mrs. Fred (Adele Hale) Bechdolt, came to Carmel as a baby in 1910, after she and her mother and father had come on an earlier visit to the Bechdolts, and, like so many others, decided to stay and call Carmel home.

"My grandmother (mother of Mrs. Bechdolt and Mrs. Overstreet) was here, too," Phyllis says. "She had come the same way, first for a visit and then to stay."

"But my father, who had been a printer working for the University of California and later for Southern Pacific, hadn't much outlet for his skill here. There was no newspaper, no print shop.

"For a while he was assistant postmaster, first under Postmaster Louis Slevin, and then under L. E. Payne. When he first took the job the post office was in Slevin's Store approximately where Spencer's House of Cards is now."

Phyllis recalls that it was her father who discovered Carmel's Great Post Office Robbery, which great anyone remembers today.

"It was about 1913," she remembers, "but I'm not at all sure of the date and not entirely sure of the year. Since Carmel postmasters were traditionally late risers, my father usually opened the office. One morning he discovered the safe had been cracked apparently by experts and quite a bit of money—I don't remember how much—(Continued on Page Three)

Governor Appoints Judge Campbell To New Superior Court

Governor Edmund G. Brown, in a personal telephone call on Thursday, informed Monterey Municipal Court Judge Gordon Campbell that official public announcement would come on Monday of his appointment to the newly-created third Monterey County Superior judgeship.

In Monday's official announcement, Governor Brown stated, "Judge Campbell's fairness and integrity have been demonstrated in his three-year tenure of the Municipal Court. He will be a fine addition to the Superior Court."

Chief Justice Phil S. Gibson of the California Supreme Court will administer the oath of office to Judge Campbell at noon on Monday in the Superior Court chambers in Salinas.

Judge Campbell's Superior Court tenure is effective until June when he will have to stand for election for a six-year term. He stated Monday that he plans to do this. He was endorsed for the Superior Court judgeship by State Senator Fred Farr of Carmel and the Monterey County Bar Association.

Dig Up Park--Put Cars Underneath --Martin Solution

Esthetics first, public safety next, motorist convenience and economics, last, was the order of importance planning commissioners yesterday afternoon gave factors to be considered in preparing a plan for parking lots for the business district.

They all agreed that small landscaped lots dispersed in the residence zone on the periphery of the commercial area were most desirable.

Next week they will decide whether or not to have parking plan public hearings, also consider a list of persons possessing knowledge of parking problems whom they may invite to help them unravel the complexities of Carmel's parking problem.

Commissioner John B. Martin agreed with other commissioners that small lot peripheral parking was desirable if money were no object. However, such lots would remove land from the tax rolls, whether placed in commercial or residential zones. His idea was to use land now owned by the city.

"Dig up the park! Go underground!" he advocated, and explained that an underground parking facility under Devonford Plaza would provide 90-100 off-street parking stalls, also give the city a disaster shelter. The park could be replaced after the underground facility was completed. Mr. Martin pointed out. Cost of the whole project he estimated at $200,000.

"That will not buy much land in Carmel," he added. Then went on to cite other figures to prove cost of municipal parking will be (Continued on Page Sixteen)

Reporting to district trustees last night for the school safety committee, Mrs. Norman Vaa said her group had voted to ask the California Division of Highways to widen the shoulder of Highway One from Carmel High School to Carmel Valley Road, a route down which some 100 students walk every day.

Because of a long-standing policy, the state highway department earlier refused to provide a pedestrian walk. Following Mrs. Vaa's report, the school board voted to seek the help of the state for the project, subject to approval by the Parent-Teachers Association.

GILROY CAGERS HERE

FRIDAY NIGHT

Retaliation for being uninvited to the Carmel Tournament for the first time and anxious to prove the coaches and sportswriters were right in picking them to finish first in the CCAL B-Division provides the Gilroy Mustangs with all the incentive they need when they visit the Carmel High gym this Friday night. Always a smooth-working pattern-type team, the Bob Hagen-coached Mustangs have provided plenty of interesting basketball for Carmel fans and most of the Carmel Tournament regulars will be sorry to see Gilroy eliminated from the annual hoop festival. The Blue and White gang made the prognosticators look good last week as it hammered the Pacific Grove Breakers, 58 to 35, in the league-opener. An all-league performer last season, Joe Filippelli, is the big gun in the Mustang attack, but he has plenty of support from a veteran starting quintet. Filippelli bagged 23 markers against Pacific Grove and appears destined for the same stardom attained by the fabulous Dick Smith.

Coach Dick Lawitzke's charges have been working overtime this week in preparation for the league favorites. Still smarting from the upset whipping in Hollister, the Padres would enjoy a real morale-booster by upsetting the Mustangs. Coach Lawitzke plans to go with his usual starting five of Ted Leidig and Bob Palma, guards; Pete Morse, center; and Jim Brown teamed with Jim Kelley at the forward spots.

The Gilroy tussle is also a big one for Coach Harold Lippstreu's lightweights, who stand a good chance to win the title if they can down the Ponies. Pacific Grove upset the Gilroy lights last Friday night, and a loss to the Little Padres would just about eliminate them from the title contention. Carmel's starting lightweight quintet is Jose Fernandez, Al Arndt, Jack DeWitt, Rich Wise and Enborg Halle. The improved play of Bob Moffatt, Ed Brown and Jay Lang indicates they will log some playing time before the firing is over.

Carmel's jayvee gang will try to extend its winning streak of one straight at the expense of the Gilroy reserves in a 5:30 fracas. Answering the referee's whistle to start the game will be Bob Wells, Mike Brasher, Stan Michelson, Steve Johnson and Stan Cummings.

HAYBALER VARSITY UPSETS CARMEL; JAYVEES AND LIGHTWEIGHTS WIN

Lulled into a false sense of security by Hollister's winless record, Carmel High's varsity basketball team dropped far behind in the first half and finally dropped a 43-40 decision to the jubilant Haybalers. A cold-shooting first half found the Padres down by 9 points and the fired-up Hollister quintet hung on to notch the victory after repelling a determined Padre surge in the final quarter.

While the varsity was dropping its first league game of the season, the lightweight and junior-varsity squads liked the competition at Hollister and both came home with victories. The jayvees clipped the Hollister reserves, 27 to 22, while the lightweights got the job done, 38 to 13.

Jim Brown and Teddy Leidig led the Padre varsity in a fourth-quarter rally which nearly pulled the game out of the fire, but a rash of fouls in the closing minutes provided the necessary margin for the

Mrs. Henry Jones tees up a golf ball for golf pro Lawson Little, while Mrs. Rody Holt keeps his score at the Peter Hay Three-Par Pitch 'n Put Course at Pebble Beach where the Peter Hay Memorial Hole-in-One Golf Contest will be played January 13-21. Haybaler victory. Brown tallied 13 points to lead the Carmel scorers, while Leidig took runner-up honors with 10. Bud Silva's 12 points paced the Hollister scorers, with Mike Ottmar and Al Garios each netting 10 markers.

Coach Clyde Klaumann's junior-varsity picked up its initial win of the season as it parlayed some fine shooting by Mike Brasher, Stan Michelson, and Bob Wells for the satisfying victory. Excellent rebounding by Al Nishimura, John Lefler and Stan Cummings was instrumental in notching the win.

Best basketball of the night was displayed by Coach Harold Lippstreu's classy lightweight gang as it did a workmanlike job on the hard-trying Hayseeds. Led by Rich Wise, Jose Fernandez and Enborg Halle, the Little Padres broke to an early lead and had the game salted away before the first half was over. Wise chipped in with 10 markers for the game's high scorer. Excellent team play by Al Arndt, Jack DeWitt, Jay Lang and Bob Moffatt made the going easy for the Padre lights.

PETER HAY HOLE-IN-ONE TOURNAMENT OPENS BIG GOLF WEEK

The Bing Crosby Pro-Amateur Golf Tournament slated for January 18-21 will have a little added spice this year in the form of the Peter Hay Memorial Hole-in-One Tournament which gets underway this Saturday at 1:00 o'clock. With all proceeds from the Hole-in-One Tournament ticketed for the Peter Hay Memorial Physical Therapy Department of the new Community Hospital, hackers and talented swingers alike will be taking their cuts in quest of some of the $20,000 in prizes which go to the lucky ones who get close to the pin. The Peter Hay Memorial will run from January 15 to 21 with the big prize being round trips for two couples from San Francisco to Miami Beach, Florida, plus a week at the Diplomat Hotel in Hollywood.

In February, 1914, Bill Overstreet, who had earlier purchased a second-hand press, began publishing The Pine Cone, a four-page, hand-set newspaper bearing a motto of courageous self-confidence: "If you read it in The Pine Cone, you may safely repeat it."

Phyllis remembers her father as a man of tremendous energy and enthusiasm who could out-work almost anyone. And well he must have been. With his press set up in the room behind the postoffice of that time, which occupied the building now housing Womble's Pharmacy, Bill Overstreet, working alone, set advertising and news for his paper, handled its distribution and collections, sold subscriptions and did much of the news-gathering and writing.

Meanwhile, he found time to serve on the school board and with the fire department when it was organized, and to give time to many other civic endeavors. "He was fiercely loyal to Carmel," Phyllis says. "Every time someone dropped in at the office, no matter what he was busy with, he found time to talk with them and always demanded, 'What were your reasons for coming to Carmel?'"

Phyllis says she believes her father named his publication The Pine Cone because of his continuing fascination with Carmel's woods. The Overstreets had purchased a home on Junipero Street (it cost $500 and included four lots, Phyllis says), and one of Mr. Overstreet's favorite pastimes was wandering through the pine groves which covered the Eighty Acres section, picking up pine cones for his fire place. It was a pleasure impossible at his former home in Berkeley and it never failed to charm him.

Phyllis's mother, Kathryn (Kitty) Overstreet, started the Pine Needles column for her husband's paper, and sold much of the advertising, sometimes traveling over the hill to Monterey to get copy from advertisers there.

But saying the Overstreets published their paper without help wouldn't be strictly true in a town like Carmel. It was everyone's paper. Everyone helped. Phyllis's uncle, Fred Bechdolt, of course contributed articles as did most of the other Carmelites. Later, Mr. Overstreet had partnership arrangements with several editors, and at one period in the Twenties, Phyllis recalls, a couple of Carmelites who later were Pine Cone editors, Daisy Bostick and Perry Newberry, worked in the office together.

And Phyllis? "I folded Pine Cones on publication day as soon as I was big enough," she said.

Publication day varied sometimes, depending on whether or not the press broke down. But no one ever complained.

The Overstreets retired as publishers in 1926, selling The Pine Cone and moving to the home Mrs. Appleton now occupies, on Junipero across from the Carmel Plaza.

Carmel must have been one big playground for a child in those days.

"There were millions of blackberries. We had thickets full of them. We gathered and sold them to the Leidig Brothers Grocery (which occupied the present Kip's site).

"Our neighbor, George Sterling, had some animal skulls tacked onto tree trunks in his yard, which for some reason terrified the children. We hated to go near there in the dark.

"In the period before he started the paper, my father leased and operated Carmel's bathhouse, at the foot of Ocean Avenue. There was a board walk and a life line leading out to a raft. People would swim out that far, visitors renting suits — the type with long black stockings — from the bathhouse.

"The bathhouse itself was an elaborate layout then. A French chef prepared chowder and other delicacies for the restaurant. A huge glass window looked out on the sea at the front, where outside there were benches for people to rest after they came up from the beach. At the back of the bathhouse was a row of cubicles for dressing rooms.

"Every summer we looked forward to the arrival of the Columbia Park Boys who came from the Bay area and camped on Junipero Street in the woods. Each time they came, they cut down pine trees to make camp furniture, benches, chairs and tables.

"At night they built huge pine bonfires and all the people from Carmel gathered to hear the entertainment they provided, usually in the form of minstrel and variety shows. They brought along their own band to provide music.

"This was the heyday, too, of the Forest Theater. I remember best the plays I appeared in, of course. I was a little Indian for the Serra Pageant around 1912. Mother was a squaw and Uncle Fred Bechdolt was Serra. I was the white rabbit for Alice in Wonderland, the lame child in The Pied Piper, and had some role or other in Tusitala.

"We had our own horses which we kept at stables on our property, and rode all over. No area was closed to us even down town. Then about once every two months we took a day to go to Monterey by horse and buggy. The hill was steep and the road winding and sometimes muddy. We always stopped on the way to rest the horse. Once a wild cat jumped out of the brush and scared the horse.

"From Monterey we would take the street car to Pacific Grove after we'd left the horse in Monterey to be shod. Then we'd come home in the evening."

It wasn't exactly all play and no work for Carmel children in those days, however. Phyllis attended Miss Emma Williams's School at the teacher's home in the Eighty Acres. Her classmates included the daughters of the James Hoppers, Frank Murphy, Connie Heron, David and Frank Lloyd. After the group had completed the early elementary grades taught by Miss Williams, they were sent to Sunset School, then a two-room institution with two teachers.

Among the personalities Mrs. Appleton remembers with affection are Ella Reid Harrison, who later endowed Carmel's library, Michael Williams, Alice McGowan and Grace McGowan Cooke. "Cooke's Cove at the foot of 13th Street, was the place we went for beach suppers."

A downtown store particularly popular with the children was the Curtis Candy Store operated by Delos Curtis who made his own candy. He also had a pony and cart, Phyllis says, in which he used to drive around town on errands. On the side of the cart was a sign advertising whatever movie was current at the Manzanita Theater.

That theater, at Ocean and Mission, was really the Manzanita Club Hall, where community dances, lectures and socials were held, with movies shown three nights a week.

"It was a strange thing," Phyllis says, "and wonderful, too. We had all the elements of civilization and yet from our house (near Ninth and Junipero) we often heard coyotes howling, and they weren't too far away, either."

For those who have moved to Carmel more recently, Phyllis Overstreet Appleton is better known as the mother of DeWitt,

Polio Immunization State Law Effective In Schools Monday

The new State law making immunization against polio a requirement for admission to schools, which goes into effect on Monday, will only affect new students who enter Carmel District schools on that date or after. All currently enrolled students are not affected by the law until September, 1962, according to Mrs. Mary Clayton, school nurse.

Carmel Adult School students are similarly affected by the new law, Mrs. Clayton emphasizes.

New enrollees who have never received polio immunization will not be accepted after Monday until they have had at least one shot in the immunization series; or their parents submit a letter to the Carmel District board of trustees stating that immunization is against their beliefs; or a written statement to the board is submitted by a physician stating that the enrollee's health warrants exemption from polio immunization. This statement must also say what the specific medical condition is that precludes immunization, also how long the duration of this condition will be.

The series of three immunizations must be completed in the year following admission, unless subject to the above exemptions.

Letters will be sent to all parents in March by the Superintendent's office asking for polio immunization information on each pupil in the Carmel District. Between then and next September, this information will be recorded on the permanent records of each pupil in the schools. It will also be incorporated in all transcripts.

A parent's word that a student has received, or is receiving polio immunization will be acceptable as proof, Mrs. Clayton indicates. This procedure will be similar to that followed for other immunization information asked by the school system. Forms will be mailed to all parents with the March letters. These forms must be signed.

of his plans for the new two and one-half million dollar Community hospital being built at the top of Carmel Hill. Stone said the execution of the patterned concrete work at the 100-room hospital has the finest workmanship of any job he has designed.

Mr. Stone selected the exterior and interior color, a greyed-white, for the hospital during his visit. He also consulted with landscape architect George Hoy to select plantings in conformity with the hospital site in Del Monte Forest.

Mr. Stone designed the U.S. Embassy in India and is presently working on designs for the United Nations building for the 1964 World's Fair in New York.

The sum of $438,000 remains to be raised for the hospital fund. Construction will be finished in April.

Crosby will rotate from Cypress Point, Monterey Peninsula Country Club, and Pebble Beach. The finals on Sunday, January 21, will be played at Pebble Beach with the low 50 pro-am teams and pros in the money fighting it out to the finish.

Last year's winner, Palo Alto's Bob Rosburg, will be on hand to defend his title and will rely on Jim Garner's 7 handicap for amateur support. In the same foursome as the defending champion will be Arnold Palmer, golf's top money winner, and his amateur partner, Phil Harris. The Rosburg-Palmer foursome has an 8:50 tee-off time at Cypress Point on opening day. Teeing off right behind Rosburg and Palmer will be the popular combine of Jimmy Demaret and Bob Hope along with Gary Player and Tennessee Ernie Ford. One of the most exciting foursomes could be the Jack Nicklaus and Ken Venturi group which follows Demaret and Hope. Nicklaus is teamed with Bob Sterling, while Dean Martin, a 10-handicapper, will be trying to contribute a few pops for Venturi. Peninsula fans will keep a close watch on Nicklaus to see whether the Ohio State belter can duplicate his sparkling performance when he won the National Amateur at Pebble Beach.

Unity Of Free World Only Way To Combat Soviet Expansion, Dr. Fisher Tells WAC Members

BY C. A. DE CAMP

Citizens of the United States must retain faith in this country's institutions, in themselves, and in their leaders if we are to play a part in effective free world opposition to Soviet expansion, Dr. Harold H. Fisher, chairman emeritus of the Hoover Institute and Library at Stanford University, told members of the Monterey Peninsula World Affairs Council at the conclusion of a talk on the has never wielded the power of his predecessor, Stalin. The unanimous rule could pose insurmountable difficulties when it came to the choice of a successor to the top spot. By abrogating the unanimous rule Khrushchev may be paving the way to naming his own successor, Dr. Fisher suggested.

Khrushchev's all-out attack at the 22nd Party Congress on Stalin as a phase of militant revolution to be discarded to give place to a more conservative approach might be a tendency toward conservatism, to consolidate the status quo and shun the previous more venturesome aspects of Communism.

The denigration of Stalin, the absolute dictator, might make way for successors of lesser dictatorial power and more dependence on the governed, he said.

A possible reason for such a change at this time, Dr. Fisher surmised, might be attributed to the stand now being taken by the Communist hierarchy quite openly, that the Soviets have attained world military supremacy. Khrushchev is now so militarily confident, that the former emphasis on military production because of enemy encirclement is no longer tenable to the Soviet masses, and their demand for consumer goods promises upon military ascendancy must receive recognition.

Communists see capitalism as wholly unfitted to effect the social structure change necessary to adapt man to the age of power into which we are now entering, and which is a third world revolution, according to Dr. Fisher. The first two were hunter to agrarian; agrarian to industrial.

Only the socialized state, according to Communists, can effect the necessary change; capitalism is doomed. It is the mission of the Soviet to effect that doom with all possible speed in order that universal socialism may prevail, Dr. Fisher said.

Unity Of Free World Only Way To Combat Soviet Expansion —

the Chinese Communists concur. He now contemplates world conquest by capturing men's minds. Thus the present Communist line, according to Dr. Fisher, is peaceful co-existence, which will give the Soviets time to demonstrate the material superiority of their system and accomplish world revolution by positive acceptance.

However, Dr. Fisher stressed, this is only a current method of promoting Communist ends. Those who delude themselves that it means a softening of Communistic purposes are but wishful thinkers.

He stated that the Russians greatly diminish the prospect of all-out nuclear war, in his opinion, for a program of little wars, threats of wars, harassments, stirring up of turmoil and creation of dissidence throughout the world.

Unity in the free world is the only answer to this program, Dr. Fisher emphasized. Greater cooperation and definition of purpose in the free world is imperative. If accomplished, the free world's superiority in strength and accomplishment will be so apparent as to wither away the Soviet cause and its menace. He concluded by advising the program stated at the beginning of this article.

FROM A LIBRARIAN'S NOTEBOOK

By Ruth Galvin Thornburg

Income tax time is upon us again. This library has two copies of the Lasser book on income taxes, fresh minted for your convenience in figuring your exemptions for 1961. One copy circulates; one stays here for use in the building. The circulating copy is for one week's use only and cannot be renewed. By a little forward thinking, most people can come to the library and use the desk copy right here and now. And while we are on the subject of taxes, we should mention a new book by Dan Smith which was published under the title Federal Tax Reform, the Issues and a Program. There is considerable mishmash about income taxes in this book, too. The author is a professor of finance at Harvard University. Perhaps we should have purchased more than one copy of this book. It looks good, and there is a healthy last chapter which does a sort of summing up of the whole thing. This is handy in case you have missed the idea in an earlier chapter.

Not too long ago a literary patron complained at length because our collection of books on boats was deficient where larger craft were concerned. He wanted to build a big boat, really big. So now we have Power-Boat Cruising by Edward Delmar-Morgan. This book seems to have much material for boat builders and for persons who are equipping a larger boat. We hope.

San Francisco fire, Mrs. Fremont Older began to collect material for a book about San Francisco, which book has just been published. There is a covey of photographs along about the middle of the book and included among them is one of Lily Hitchcock Coit, who looks exactly as she should. This is a tell-all book covering everything from building the Golden Gate bridge to the beatniks of today, or was it yesterday. The title is San Francisco, Magic City. Don't miss this one.

Anyone who has had experience with termites infesting the home, or mice, or bats in the attic, or spiders, or pesky moths, or any other of the multitudinous forms of life which can move in along with the human tenants, anyone in such a category can appreciate the next book. It is called The Living House, and it was written by George Ordish. It follows four hundred years in the life of a certain house in England, but the following is not by the human route, the tenants, the renters, the owners, but rather by the route of all the other forms of life which came to inhabit the house. The main character in the book is the house itself. Read this and you will know

Countertenor Sings Program Wednesday For Music Society

The Carmel Music Society will present Russell Oberlin, countertenor and tenor, in a concert on Wednesday evening at 8:30 o'clock in Sunset School Auditorium.

As a countertenor, Mr. Oberlin presents in the mid-twentieth century the high male voice type of singing popular in the seventeenth and eighteenth centuries. He is once again why a sturdy old house is the most fascinating thing in the world, much more interesting than any green inexperienced house.

A new biography of Lord Byron has been written by Doris Langley Moore. Shedding new light upon one of the most talked about figures of world literature, this book is said to be the product of years of enthusiastic research. The title is The Late Lord Byron.

There are ten new novels this week, and many other interesting non-fiction things. In fact, it looks like a good week for the readers of the village.

capable of meeting the exceeding demands of this medium in long-neglected works of Handel, Bach, and Purcell, given in the full glory of their original creation.

Russell Oberlin's unique countertenor timbre and resonance bring new drama and excitement to the recital stage and his soaring voice has been acclaimed by audiences and critics in the United States and Europe. He is equally successful in his lyric tenor repertoire.

In this country, Mr. Oberlin has appeared as soloist with the New York Philharmonic, the Chicago Symphony, the National Symphony, the American Opera Society, Washington Opera Society and in the New York Pro Musica's Play of Daniel. As a singing actor he has performed with the American Shakespeare Festival, the Cambridge Drama Festival, and with Leonard Bernstein on the Ford television program.

In England he has been soloist in Albert Hall with the British Broadcasting Company under Sir Malcolm Sargent, and performed at the Dartington Summer Festival. He also has toured England, France and Italy in the Play of Daniel.

Nancy Lofton at Meeting

Mrs. Richard Lofton of Carmel, fourth grade teacher at Monte Vista School, spent the weekend in Menlo Park at the meeting of the California State Central Coordinating Committee on Credential Revision. Mrs. Lofton's particular concern was the sub-committee on the standard teaching credential, of which she is one of only two school teacher members, the other members being principally college professors, school superintendents, and representatives of such organizations as the American Association of University Women and the Parent-Teacher Association. The sub-committee's work is to implement the legislative bill for new teaching credentials (Fisher SB 57, as it is called) which emphasizes academic training. All expenses of the Menlo Park meeting were met by the Ford Foundation.

Mrs. Talcott Bates of Monterey, as a member of the State Board of Education, is an ex-officio member of the same committee. She and Mrs. Lofton traveled to Menlo Park together.

While she was north, Mrs. Lofton spent a night with her daughter, Nancy Dee, a student at the University of California at Berkeley, in the apartment near the campus which Nancy shares with Gabrielle de Tourville of San Francisco.

A Church With No Missionaries

The Unitarian - Universalist Church, of which the Peninsula Unitarian Church is an affiliate, has from its earliest beginning rejected the idea of religious "conversion," or any other procedure which amounts to trying to impose our religious convictions on others.

On the other hand, we welcome with enthusiasm anyone who voluntarily joins us because his own convictions, arrived at independently, parallel our own, or complement them.

We ask our members to subscribe to no creed, yet we hold sacred certain values—liberality, tolerance, reason. We don't pursue personal "salvation" but seek instead a salvation for all human kind by our own efforts.

Heather Is Engaged

Mrs. Jean O'Brien Geisen of Carmel this week announced the betrothal of her daughter, Heather Ann Hamilton, to Jonathan Kuff Persoff of New York.

He is the son of Mrs. Albert Persoff of Beverly Hills and the late Mr. Persoff. Richard Persoff of San Francisco is his brother.

Heather graduated from Carmel High School and has studied at the New York School of Interior Design, the University of Geneva and the Sorbonne. She is currently living in New York where she is engaged in the interior design field.

Fred P. Hamilton, Jr., of Beverly Hills, is her father, and her sister is Mrs. William Robert Haire of Long Beach. Donel Geisen of Carmel is her brother.

The future bridegroom is a graduate of Pomona College. He is engaged in the advertising agency business (Benton and Bowles) in New York.

The couple plan a spring wedding.

Mrs. Adams Is 90

Mrs. Hannah Adams celebrated her 90th birthday Saturday at the Carmel home of her daughter, Marian Adams. Miss Adams was assisted as hostess by her sister, Frances Adams, and Florence Smythe, Marguerite Wilcox and Harold Bond.

In Miss Adams's living room on the brick area of the floor-to-ceiling fireplace, the celebrants had placed an original design composed of 90 small candles (plus "one to grow on"). The candles were lighted for the two-day celebration, which was also a happy time of reunion for the two sisters and a brother of the honoree: Mrs. Mary Kittel of Casselton, North Dakota, Mrs. Cora Fox of Long Beach, and William Gerstman of Mackay, Idaho.

Mrs. Adams's son, James Adams of Olivia, Minnesota, also flew here for the occasion. Other weekend and party guests were Mr. and Mrs. Stephen Inns of Ukiha, Mrs. George Leonard of Los Altos with her daughter, Barbara Robben and grandson Michael of Alameda, Mr. and Mrs. William Ree of Los Gatos with their son, Thomas and daughter, Phoebe, and many other friends and relatives who dropped in to offer congratulations, and reminisce with Mrs. Adams about her pioneer past as the wife of a country doctor in Morgan, Minnesota.

Mrs. Adams's later years were spent in Van Nuys and Redondo Beach at the home of her third daughter, Miss Mildred Adams.

Dell Redding Improving

Friends of Dell Redding, son of Mr. and Mrs. Wendell Redding, will be glad to hear that he is on the mend after a recent serious ski accident in Squaw Valley.

Dell, a Carmel High School graduate and student at Fresno State, was skiing on the well-known KT 22 hill on December 31 when he sustained facial and head injuries and fractured neck vertebrae. After a week at the Tahoe Forest Hospital in Truckee, he was brought by ambulance to the Monterey Hospital where he is progressing satisfactorily and is able to see visitors.

Tri Delt Alumnae Meeting

The January meeting of the Monterey Bay Area alumnae chapter of Delta Delta Delta sorority will be held on Wednesday at the home of Mrs. T. W. Imlay in Pebble Beach. All Tri Deltas in the area are invited to attend.

The local Tri Delt alumnae chapter received its official charter last month at an installation conducted by Mrs. Charles French of San Francisco, district chairman for Northern California.

Mrs. Karl Frank of Carmel is the chapter's president.

High School CSF Trip

Seventeen Carmel High School students who are members of the California Scholarship Federation, statewide high school academic honor society, were given a special holiday last Friday when they went on their first trip of the school year. A visit to the Philco Corporation near San Jose gave them a glimpse of what is being accomplished in the field of radio astronomy, although much of the plant is highly classified and therefore off bounds. "And, of course, guards were following us everywhere!" one CSF member reports.

Afterward, the group drove up to Lick Observatory for the regular Friday evening open house and a look through the two telescopes. An especially clear night added to everyone's enjoyment.

CSF members who made the trip were Gay Beauchamp, Nancy Bibb, Dianne Caldwell, Warren Chapman, Tasha Doner, Tom Farrell, Baxter Garcia, Joella Leland, Jeff McKenna, Alison Miller, Karen Norberg, Linda Predmore, Jim Purvis, Jon Raggett, Pam Rosewall, Marilyn Swim, and Valerie Whitworth.

Accompanying the students and transporting the expedition were Mrs. Dudley Swim, Mrs. Charles Rosewall, Mark Raggett, Joseph Solumone, and Lewis Di Stefano, high school mathematics teacher.

Other CSF members, who were unable to make the trip, are Lolita Concepcion, Mike Graham, Jane Martin, Peggy Newton, Lee Oleson, Walt Powell (at school) in Ankara, Turkey, this year, where his father is teaching), and Stan Smith. Faculty sponsor for the local branch of the California Scholarship Federation is Mrs. Ellen Jane Down.

Home From Holiday Visit

Miss Mary Lindsay-Oliver has returned from a 10-day Christmas vacation with Mr. and Mrs. Jack Alberti, former Chevy Chase friends now of La Jolla. In the Alberti residence overlooking the ocean, a party of nine sat down to Christmas Eve dinner after singing carols played by the Carmel guest.

Other friends were visited by Miss Lindsay-Oliver in San Diego and Del Mar with more dinner parties. She also visited the large art building at La Jolla, which, she reported, "offered very little good painting compared with the galleries of the Peninsula, but has a concert hall for the La Jolla Symphony Orchestra series."

The Albertis anticipate spending a couple of months of the spring in Carmel, and may purchase a house here, according to Miss Lindsay-Oliver.

The traveling Carmelite plans to be in San Francisco this weekend to hear Ruth Slenczynski, who is appearing with the San Francisco Symphony Orchestra. She will also give a benefit concert at Mills College where as a child prodigy she played her first public recital at the age of four.

Miss Slenczynski was a soloist with the Carmel Bach Festival in 1951.

Good News From Geneva

Grandparents for the first time are Mr. and Mrs. Wendell Redding of Carmel, who received word by cable this week of the birth of a seven-pound daughter to Mr. and Mrs. John L. Vandien of Geneva, Switzerland, on Monday.

Mother of the little newcomer, who apparently hadn't been named when the cable was dispatched, is the former Diane Redding of Carmel. The Vandiens were married in The Hague, The Netherlands, about two years ago, after which John was transferred by his company to Geneva, where the couple has been living a little over a year.

The new father is with the finance department of Chrysler International.

Lucille's Trip 'Fabulous'

Following her fourth trip to Hawaii, Mrs. Lucille Ray, Carmel's administrative clerk, reported today with as much enthusiasm as if it had been a first trip: "It's fabulous over there."

Lucille, who left Carmel around Thanksgiving and returned to work Monday, says that except for one day when she rented a car and started to drive around Oahu, she didn't actually do any traveling after she reached her vacation destination. "I reached Waikiki, went to the beach, and stayed there," she said.

Among Carmelites and former Carmelites she saw while there were Peggy Porter Hartman, former resident of Carmel Valley, and Willard Neumann, Carmel lodge operator.

Diane Alpha Phi Vice President

Diane Miller, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Miller, is the new vice president of the Alpha Phi sorority chapter at San Jose State College. In this capacity she has charge of scholarship for the chapter. Diane also is a member of the College-Community Relations committee. She was appointed to this position by the SJSC student body president.

Teryl Has a Party

Five sixth graders, all school classmates, spent a sleepless—till midnight, anyway—night Saturday evening at the Sam Colburn home, when daughter Teryl was hostess at a slumber party.

"We ate," Teryl reports, "told jokes, and got to bed about 12:00." Guests were Vicki Holman, Sally Egger, Tina Benedict and Lark Ekstrum.

Marie Baumann

Mrs. Marie Pfandler Baumann, of Carmel Highlands, died yesterday morning in a local hospital. She had been ill for a short time.

Mrs. Baumann, 90 years old, was the mother of Dr. Friedy Heisler, with whom she made her home on Upper Walden Road, and the widow of Carl Baumann, who died in 1914.

A native of Degersheim, Switzerland, Mrs. Baumann was born May 21, 1871. She left her native country in 1938, coming 10 years later to make her home in the Highlands with Dr. Heisler and Mrs. Baumann's son-in-law, Francis Heisler.

In addition to Dr. Heisler, Mrs. Baumann is survived by four grandchildren, Dr. Ivan C. F. Heisler of San Francisco, Mrs. Renee Desormeaux, Mrs. Helen Masson and Charles Baumann, all of Hull, Quebec, Canada; seven great grandchildren; and a daughter-in-law, Mrs. Carl Baumann, Jr. A son, Carl Baumann, Jr., of Ontario, Canada, preceded his mother in death.

Funeral services will be tomorrow at 2:00 o'clock in the afternoon at the Little Chapel-by-the-Sea, Pacific Grove, with Dr. K. Fillmore Gray of the Church of the Wayfarer officiating. The Paul Mortuary is in charge of arrangements.

FIRE, AMBULANCE CALLS

Carmel firemen were called out six times during the past week, three times for gasoline wash-downs and once to put out a small trash fire in a rubbish container in front of Fortier's Drug Store on Ocean Avenue Saturday afternoon.

The department responded to a general alarm at the Cherry Foundation, Fifth Avenue and Santa Rita Street, where cause of a brush fire Tuesday afternoon was traced to children playing with matches. Damage was minor.

The Red Cross ambulance, operated by Carmel Volunteer firemen, responded to an emergency

Minimum cost of a Carmel commercial block is $700,000, Mr. Martin stated. There will be no tax revenue for the city from municipal lots. The post office parking lot represents a $40,000 city investment with no revenue returns, he continued. Price of land in the commercial zone is $1250 per foot, compared to $60 in the residence zone, he concluded.

"It's a matter of where we can best afford to lose revenue," he said, referring to possible purchase by the city of land for municipal lots.

"We are automatically thrown into R-1 (residence zone)," Chairman Herbert Blanks commented at this point and stated that problems of noise, density and terrain would arise if parking lots extended into the residential area.

"It would be very unwise to designate whole blocks for parking, also unesthetic," Mr. Blanks added.

Martin suggested 1,000 square feet per block as a possible parking lot limitation if parking were placed on the periphery of the business district in the residence area.

Commissioner Dorothy von Meier thought residents of these areas would not want their houses next to parking. Commissioner Florence Josselyn wondered if such a proposition would not infringe on the residents' rights.

"Go underground," Martin reiterated.

Commissioner Hugh Smith asked Mr. Martin how other cities he had mentioned operated underground parking facilities. Mr. Martin replied they were leased.

"And they all have gas stations," Mrs. Josselyn interposed.

August Nieto, Carmel businessman, also present at yesterday's meeting strongly advocated peripheral parking as proposed in the Livingston plan for Carmel and said three lots was the amount of land desirable for a parking lot.

Faced with considering public safety, traffic flow, amount of off-street parking needed, exactly what type of parking is required, in addition to the problems they had already considered, commissioners decided they needed outside help.

Mr. Blanks said he will draw up and present to them next week a list of persons able to help them in these matters. Commissioners then will decide which of these "authorities" will be invited to deliberate with them, also if they will have public hearings.

At the beginning of their session yesterday commissioners reviewed a list of parking studies and projects undertaken in Carmel in the past 12 years. This list prepared by Mr. Blanks, concluded with this statement:

The foregoing report summarizes briefly the principal undertakings of the City of Carmel during the past 12 years respecting off-street parking. It is significant that the problem has been under almost continuous study, absorbing considerable time and energy both in the Planning Commission and in the City Council, as well as among citizen and business groups, and that nothing of any major consequence, with the exception of the establishment of P-3 Zoning, has resulted. No lack of effort, of good intention or sincerity is evident. It may therefore be concluded that the failure to establish any policy, plan or program results from the magnitude of the problem, its rather specialized complexity and a lack of coherent public opinion."

Commenting on this statement yesterday, Mr. Blanks said, "The biggest, glaring omission is that no policy for parking has ever been established. The question is: Shall parking be for the benefit of the town or the citizens of the community?"

Trustees End Frozen Lunch Program; Take On Gym Suit Sales

Labor cost per lunch at the three schools, therefore remains high, frozen lunch or no, with River at 15 cents, Tularcitos at 21 cents and Woods at 16 cents.

Representatives of the frozen lunch firm which serviced Woods School through its controversial experiment had been confident the labor cost would drop markedly under the new program, and that participation would rise, thus raising efficiency and lowering costs. These things, however, never happened.

The school board last night saw another knotty item cleared up: boys' gym suits. According to a report from Carmel High School Principal Warren Edwards, the school has ordered two gross of gym suits which pass athletic requirements and will sell them on campus for two dollars each. (The school bought them for $19.66 per dozen.) The mark-up will cover tax and freight.

Edwards's report also said steps have been taken to "beef up" the security conditions in the gym locker area by placing sheet metal between the basket bins to discourage reaching into other bas-

Prior to his appointment to the Municipal Court bench, Judge Campbell maintained a private law practice for 23 years in Monterey. During the past year he has presided on assignment to Superior Court benches in Monterey and San Luis Obispo counties.

A former Carmel city councilman and past president of the Board of Trustees of the Carmel Unified School District with which he served for 10 years, he is a past president of the Monterey County Bar Association, former trustee of the Peninsula Hospital, Past Commander American Legion Post 512, Carmel, and a former trustee of the Harrison Memorial Library.

He saw duty as a Navy officer in World War II. The Campbell family home is at Monte Verde Street and Santa Lucia Avenue.

His brother, John Campbell, a Carmel resident, teaches history at Monterey High School. (Continued from Page One) sibility of all citizens. We agree.

This is a challenge! Both businessmen and residents will benefit if the planning commission arrives at a solution that can stand as an example to all other communities, also keep the character of this community which citizens have fought to preserve over the years, and which is the businessmen's greatest asset.
